NOTES AND COMMENT

The U.F.A. leader, Robert Gardiner M.P., is also advocating a change of system. He wants the currency nationalized, so that no profit can be made on money. If the banks really owned the money they control the fact he advances that they make a profit of 4 per cent on their loans might have some significance. But when it is considered the banks have practically all the people's savings involved in their deposits, the proposal to prevent any profit being made on money would in effect wipe out one of the prime instigations to save. This theory that all that is necessary is to get rid of people who have money, no matter how honestly they acquired it, or how great an effort its accumulation required, can be partly appreciated when the agitation comes from labor organizations, but does not sound so good when emanating from the leader of a farmer's party. The farmer is essentially a capitalist, and even in Russia they had to take their land away from them in order to permit of communistic principles being tried out. There are unquestionably people who have amassed fortunes dishonestly, and capitalism as illustrated by many corporations has many sins to answer for, but to assume their must be some complete turn over in system because things have got tangled up is open to question. Times were just as bad in the late '70s as they are now, but recovery came without any fantastic schemes being adopted. The change from capitalism to socialism should come as a matter of evolution rather than revolution, if it is so highly desirable. Political and other leaders must advance something to their supporters to justify holding their positions and a change of "system" seems to be the popular theme at the present time. The public safety lies in the fact there are so many ideas in regard to a new system that their advocates will naturally nullify their own efforts.

The delivery of wheat from Churchill to Liverpool is a matter of greater moment to wheat growers, in fact producers of every kind, than any particular notice it has received. Next year's crop may be routed at a saving of 1,000 miles from any part of this country to Liverpool, and while this does not relieve the immediate situation it promises a considerable reduction of freight rates for the future both on outgoing and incoming goods. It is always a number of small things that make the difference between a profit and loss in production, and the Hudson Bay route to Europe will be one of the differences that will improve the wheat situation next year.

Without any action on our own part we are experiencing the result of deflated currency, urged as a remedy for hard times from many quarters. At present the change has not been appreciated by anyone going to the States from Canada, as a discount of 10 per cent on their money looks very big. Less people will spend the winter across the line as a result, although this movement would have been very limited under any circumstances. The two things which would improve the situation—selling large quantities of goods to the United States, or buying heavily from Great Britain—seem to have been prevented by legislation.

Postponement of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference until 1933 will be generally acceptable and will undoubtedly result in both greater exhibits and attendance. Times were far from favorable for such an exhibition, and in addition a large part of the province of Saskatchewan was without a wheat crop from which to prepare exhibits. There should be a sufficient change in conditions by 1933 to insure a general boost for the big grain show.

Fruit growers of the Niagara peninsula are reaping the profits of a drive for increased trade with Western Canadian producers. According to figures released by the Canadian National Railways, there is an increase of 38 per cent in the number of cars of fruit received in the west since September 1st, as compared to September of 1930.

Has western Canada become "soup-minded." The arrival of six carloads of soup from Eastern Canada, via the Canadian National this week, would indicate it has. This soup is for distribution throughout the prairies. Cold weather dishes are replacing the salads of the summer months and this shipment will provide 601,200 hungry westerners with a plate of steaming soup, tomato, vegetable, or "what have you?" Each carload of soup contains 600 cases on an average, and each case contains four dozen cans. The pint-sized cans each make one quart of soup and will feed four people. A hot time is promised in the soup kitchens.

To Be or Not To Be ? That is the Question.

From various causes payments on subscription account to The Chronicle during the years 1929 and 1930 were almost negligible, considering the total. That is the reason that in one of the hardest years experienced in the district we are forced to urge payment by those who are able to pay.

Receipts from all other sources have dwindled with the advancing depression to the vanishing point, so that if we are to continue to operate the plant part of the $1,200 subscription arrears on our books must be paid.

We would offer a premium for immediate payment but the price of The Chronicle, $1.50 per year, is the lowest of any rural weekly in the province as far as we know, and does not provide room for either reductions or premiums. If you cannot pay us all you owe, part of it would be equally acceptable. Remember, we are only asking those to pay who are able to pay. A call at the office would be appreciated if it was only to convey the information that you couldn't pay. It requires a touch of misfortune to develop our kinship.

A Time For Self Control

As Shakespeare once put it, "the times are out of joint." These are troublous days, and days of trouble. Man's nerves are on edge, and little things that would be passed over lightly in good times are every day becoming the cause of quarrels. Because nerves are on edge, tempers are not under control even to the extent they usually are, and in the case of most people tempers are never controlled as they should be.

Today people quarrel and dispute about almost anything, and lose their tempers over the most trivial matters which are of no importance whatever. The great Bard of Avon wrote: "Beware of entrance to a quarrel; but, being in, bear it as the soldier does the wall of battlements." Abraham Lincoln, however, said that while this advice was good, it was not the best, and he substituted: "Quarrel not at all. No man, resolved to make the most of himself, can spare time for personal contention. Still less can he afford to take the consequences, including the vitiation of his temper, of the loss of self-control. Yield larger things to which you show no more than equal right; and yield lesser ones to which clearly your own. Better give your path to a dog than be bitten by him in contesting for the right. Even killing the dog would not cure the bite."

This is not to say that a man should sacrifice so much as one important conviction, or yield his principles for the sake of peace or profit. There are times when a man should get mad, when we could feel nothing but contempt for him if he did not. But such occasions are few and far between. The trivial, inconsequential thing should never be the cause of disposition or outbreak of temper.

We are reminded of the three-word Latin motto above the doorway of the ancient "chamber in the Guildhall in which the aldermen of London held their court and which no one can fail to see: "Audi alteram partem." Hear the other side.

And in old England, with its long years of experience in handling human beings of all complexions in all sorts of ways, it was much wiser than other nations is in dealing with agitators. The Old Land long ago learned that talk like any other gas, is dangerous only when compressed. Younger countries, Canada included, has yet to learn that lesson. So we find in the United States, where the agitators of the Hyle Park orators, the British authorities supply police protection for them, let them say their say, and do not quarrel with them.

And what is the cause of most misunderstandings, leading to loss of temper and open quarrels? Is it not that in our self-optimized state we are wasting our energies and increasing our blood pressure trying, over trivial things, to get someone else right? Instead of accepting people for what they are, we are forever trying to mold their lives to our preconceived model, endeavouring to organize them. How many married couples live in a state of tension because one or both seek to make the other live. If once the idea could get abroad that the real appeal of the sexes is the fact that they are not alike, what a great gain that would be. And what applies to the sexes applies equally to races, creeds, and other established facts of life.

Let us stop trying to organize the lives of other people, and attend strictly to the task of organizing our own. Let us master the lesson that, after all, there are comparatively few issues in this world worth disputing over. It would, of course, be a sad day for the world if righteous indignation vanished from it, if men became so immersed in the scramble for profit and place of power that they could no longer get mad over palpable wrongs and gross injustices. But the point is that too much of the world's anger is poured out in defence of pride or prejudice instead of conviction.

As one old Roman philosopher said: "Many have suffered for talking; none ever suffered for keeping silent." And, on another occasion, "We cannot be wrong in leaving other people's business alone."

Using Seed Cleaning Units

Saskatchewan Municipalities Taking Advantage Of Outfits Supplied
Several municipalities in Saskatchewan already have made applications to the Field Crop Branch of the Department of Agriculture for seed cleaning units as supplied by the Saskatchewan Government in co-operation with the Dominion Seed Branch. Under this scheme, the Governments furnish the machinery, and municipalities being required to provide the motive power and the housing accommodation. All the outfits supplied to date have been of an inherent nature, and may be transported from farm to farm during the seed cleaning period.

Saskatchewan University

Increased Attendance Is Shown For The Current Term
Former students returning to Saskatchewan University brought up the enrolment in the regular classes to 1,043 or 47 less than last year, announced President V. C. Murray. To offset this the number enrolled in the correspondence courses has increased by 27 to 303, giving a net increase of ten students.
The decline is mainly in the college of arts and sciences. The College of Agriculture University brought up the enrolment in the regular classes and engineering a considerable increase. The other colleges have about the same numbers as on the corresponding day last year.

Sheep Buried In Snow

Found Alive Eight Weeks After South African Storm

Hundreds of South Africans saw a fall of snow for the first time in their lives during a recent heavy storm on Table Mountain and other Cape ranges. While the present season is "winter" on this side of the equator, snow has rarely been seen in this far south.

From the interior comes a story of how 18 sheep lived for eight weeks under an avalanche of snow in the Molene district.

Although completely hemmed in, they managed to keep alive by crawling through the melting snow and eating the grass on the floor of the aperture, as well as snow. When found they were little more than skeletons. They are now recovering.

FASHION HINT

How to make my old short skirts conform to the new length was a problem to me until I hit on this plan. I dropped the hem, and as the part that had been turned under the hem was made of the same material as the rest of the skirt, the entire dress, after having bleached the goods following the method of the Diamond Dye package, looked like a new dress. I have used Diamond Dye for the dyeing of coats. I have used it for many things with these wonderful results. I have dyed my old blue dress and have never failed to give perfect results. I have dyed my old blue dress and have never failed to give perfect results. I have dyed my old blue dress and have never failed to give perfect results.

Thirty-Five Years Enough

Missionary To Yukon Hands Over Work To Younger Men
Duties as a missionary in the frozen Yukon for 35 years have ended for Rev. W. D. Young.
Mr. Young, only about a few minutes in Calgary, but it was long enough for him to say that he had left the Yukon over 35 years ago. He was 17 years old, he handed to younger men the work of spreading the gospel in the distant north.

It was two years before the great Klondike gold rush of 1898 that Mr. Young went north, then 38 years old. Just what he will do now, he does not know, but it is likely he will go to Toronto after his stay in Winnipeg. He made two trips to civilization during the northern stay, which included 25 years at Herschel Island. The first was in 1890, and the second in 1892.
His home, before he went north as a missionary, was in Bruce County, Ontario, where he farmed.

Kind Words Cost Nothing
There sometimes are excuses to be made for the men and women who are stingy with money, but not for those who are "stingy with appreciation." Kind words cost nothing at all; yet some of us are as reluctant to make use of them as any old miser is to part with one of his cherished gold pieces.

There has been a good demand from countries like Holland for buck-wheat honey at four to six cents a pound and producers hope for better prices than those now prevailing, under which they get only about 5 to 6 cents a pound. Last year's prices were easily 2 cents a pound, on the average, above this year's price.

RESTFUL SLEEP FOR FRETFUL, FEVERISH CHILD

—With Castoria's regulation
When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. Very often the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should. Bowels need help—milk, gentle help—but effective. Just the kind Castoria's gives. Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for children's ailments. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics, no opiates. It is gentle, and its action is interrupted. A prompt dose of Castoria will urge stubborn little bowels to act. Then relaxed comfort and restful sleep! Genuine Castoria always has the name.

Canada Has Thousands Of Level Crossings

Removal Of All Impossible Says Hon. Frank Oliver

The Dominion at present has some 28,000 level crossings scattered along railways from coast to coast. The expenditure of $15,180,000 over the past 21 years towards elimination and amelioration of this menace to traffic, according to Hon. Frank Oliver, an advisory officer to the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada, in a paper before the recent convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association at Lucerne-in-Quebec.

In 1930, a total of 341 railway crossing accidents in Canada took a toll of 115 lives and 475 injured. Mr. Oliver stated. Through the efforts of the Board of Railway Commissioners much had been done to improve railway crossing conditions Mr. Oliver continued.

Crossing accidents on provincial highways formed less than one-third of the total for 1930, the great number of crossing fatalities occurring on country roads.

The annual government grant of $200,000 to the Board for the railway crossing fund was inadequate, the speaker said, and it would be impossible to entirely remove all level crossings from the railways of the Dominion. P. Bickley, registrar of motor vehicles of Ontario, said the death rate exceeded three persons a day on the railways' roads. The total of similar fatalities in the year 1930 was 1,289 and the injured were approximately 40,000.

Project To Establish International Currency

Plan Is Suggested To Right World's Money Unceasingly
A project to establish an international currency to right world-wide monetary chaos has been disclosed in the Swiss press.

The creation of such a currency would be a step in the direction of 600,000,000 in the world bank by the central banks of the various countries. France would deposit one-third of the total amount and the United States the balance. Under the plan, certificates would be issued by the world bank and distributed among the depositors, covering either by 30 per cent. or 100 per cent. of their gold deposit. They would also draw coverage from money circulating in the various countries.

World bank quarters were considered to plan would assume concrete form in the near future. This was based on a belief that France and United States would call an international currency conference after Premier Laval's visit to Washington.

Lower Prices For Honey

Money Prices In Ontario Lowest In 25 Years

Honey values in Ontario have reached the lowest point in 25 years, according to officials of the Ontario Honey Producers' Association, and while it is true, the favour of this year's product is rated much better than the average year. Last year's crop in round figures in Ontario was about 13,000,000 pounds and this year there is a 60 per cent. crop, or about 7,500,000 pounds.

There has been a good demand from countries like Holland for buck-wheat honey at four to six cents a pound and producers hope for better prices than those now prevailing, under which they get only about 5 to 6 cents a pound. Last year's prices were easily 2 cents a pound, on the average, above this year's price.

Trade and Commerce

Oregon has a buy-at-home campaign and so has the state of Washington. Each is cancelling contracts which have been made across the border. Keep it up. Buy only in your own state, buy only in your own home town, buy only on your own side of the street, buy only from a member of your own family and still get rich. The whole idea of trade and commerce must, it seems, be old-fashioned and foolish.—Toronto Star.

No Longer a Bugbear

Britain's Departure From Gold Standard Not Likely To

The United States owns nearly half the gold supply of the world. At the beginning of the present month, United States-owned gold amounted to $4,983,000,000, a new high record. Yet in the Republic at this very moment, some millions of men, women and children are fearfully wondering how they are going to keep warm and what has been done in Britain to help the little winter.

Perhaps the position of the United States has little real relation to the gold standard in Britain, or its departure from it. Yet existing world realities have knocked so many arched and cherished theories into a cocked hat it will be surprising if what has been done in Britain does not have some effect on the United States. We have heard much harm upon anybody. Currency changes, most certainly, long ago ceased to be a bugbear.—Ottawa Journal.

Cutworm Damage

Survey Will Be Made In Several Areas Near Saskatoon

A survey of cutworm damage will be undertaken immediately by the Entomological Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

The object of this study is to secure accurate information with respect to the amount of damage done by cutworms. For this purpose several areas in the vicinity of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, have been chosen.

It is also expected that as a result of this survey information will show the relationship of farm practices and farm management to cutworm damage will be obtained and better methods of control may be developed.

City Closes Big Acreage

Regina is one of the largest cities in Canada. It covers 8,408 acres, more than twice as big as many eastern cities of similar or even greater population. Within the confines of Regina are more than 500 acres of civic parks, nearly 100 acres of exhibition grounds, besides a great deal of vacant property. Regina could comfortably accommodate twice its present population without extending the boundaries.

Canada Keeps Gold Standard

Premier Bennett Says No Change Is Contemplated

Canada retains the gold standard, and it is not proposed to abandon it. This, in effect, is the statement of Premier R. B. Bennett. Persistent rumour that the Dominion proposed to abandon the gold standard was drawn to the attention of the Prime Minister. His answer was emphatic. The Government had not changed the position taken when news of Great Britain's departure from the gold standard was flashed across the ocean.

"Canada has not altered the position taken when the announcement was made that England had departed from the gold standard, nor do we contemplate so doing," the Prime Minister declared. "We have appealed and not in vain, to Canadians to conserve our gold supply to meet whatever strain may be placed upon our resources by reason of our foreign commitments, which are payable in gold and will be honoured accordingly."

Hunters In B.C. Are Using Bow And Arrow For Big Game

Near Longworth, B.C., sixty miles east of Prince George, big game is being hunted with bow and arrow by F. Nagler, of Milwaukee, Wis., an archer of national repute. William W. Tefft, of Jackson, Mich., who has tracked animals in many countries of the world, is accompanying Mr. Nagler.

The expedition, which comprises five members, left Longworth a short time ago. Other members of the novel hunt are Leslie Hale, Arthur Read, of Longworth, and R. A. McLeod, of Dome Creek.

THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

By MARGARET FIEDLER

"The Splendid" of "The Hermit of Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd., London.

"I fear I am intrusive. But I am so interested in your future—I have taken a great fancy to you, mademoiselle. That must be my excuse." She rose from the table, adding smilingly: "At least you will not find it dull, since Lady Anne has two sons. They will be companions for you."

Jean rose, too, and together they passed out of the salie a mander.

"And what do you propose to do with yourself to-day?" asked the Countess, pausing in the hall. "My husband and I are going for a sleigh drive. Would you care to come with us? We should be delighted."

Jean shook her head.

"It's very kind of you. But I should really like to try my luck on the ice. I haven't skated for some years, and as I feel a trifle shaky about beginning again, Monsieur Griot, who directs the park, has promised to coach me up a bit some time this morning."

"But," Madame de Varigny nodded pleasantly. "You will be well occupied while we are away. Au revoir, then, till our return. Perhaps we shall walk down to the rink later to witness your progress under Monsieur Griot's instruction."

She smiled mischievously, the smile irradiating her face with a sudden charm. Jean felt as though, for a moment, she had glimpsed the woman the Countess might have been but for some happening in her life which had soured and embittered it, setting that strange impenetrability within the liquid depths of her soft, southern eyes.

She was still speculating on Madame de Varigny's curious personality as she made her way along the beaten track that led towards the risk, and then, as a sudden turn of the way brought the sheet of ice suddenly into full view, all thoughts concerning the bunch of contradictions that goes to make up individual character were swept out of her mind.

In the glory of the morning sunlight the stretch of frozen water gleamed like a shield of burnished silver, whilst on its further side rose great pine-woods, mysteriously dark and silent, climbing the steeply rising ground towards the mountains.

There were a number of people skating, and Jean discovered Monsieur Griot in the distance, supervising the practice of a pretty American girl who was cutting figures with an ease and equable balance of lithe body that hardly seemed to stand in need of the instructions he poured forth so volubly. Probably, Jean decided, the American had entered for some match and was being coached up to concert pitch accordingly.

She stood for the little time watching with interest the varied performances of the skaters. Bands of light-headed folk, including in the sport just for the sheer enjoyment of it, sped gaily by, broken snatches of their talk and laughter drifting back to her as they passed, whilst groups of more accomplished skaters performed intricate evolutions with an earnestness and intensity of purpose almost worthy of a better cause.

Jean felt a little stranded and forlorn. She would have loved someone to share her enthusiasm for the sport, to achieve by the figure-skating, and to laugh with her a little at the heated argument and at the scraps of heated argument among the various schools of technique which came to be based on the still, cold air.

Presently her attention was attracted by the solitary figure of a man who swept past her in the course of a race, including in the sport just for the sheer enjoyment of it, sped gaily by, broken snatches of their talk and laughter drifting back to her as they passed, whilst groups of more accomplished skaters performed intricate evolutions with an earnestness and intensity of purpose almost worthy of a better cause.

Presently her attention was attracted by the solitary figure of a man who swept past her in the course of a race, including in the sport just for the sheer enjoyment of it, sped gaily by, broken snatches of their talk and laughter drifting back to her as they passed, whilst groups of more accomplished skaters performed intricate evolutions with an earnestness and intensity of purpose almost worthy of a better cause.

passed her when she had been watching the skaters.

He lifted his cap, and as he stood a moment bunched beside her, she noticed with a curious little shock—half surprised, half apprehensive—that on the left temple his dark hair was streaked with a single pure white lock, as though a finger had been laid upon the hair and blanching it where it lay. It conferred a certain air of distinction—an added value of contrast—just as the sharp black shadow in a neutral-tinted picture gives sudden force to the whole conception.

The stranger was regarding Jean with a flicker of amusement in his grey eyes.

"That was a near thing," he observed.

Evidently he judged her to be a Frenchwoman, for he spoke in French—very fluently, but with an unmistakably English accent. Instinctively Jean, who all her life had been as frequently called upon to converse in French as English, responded in the same language.

She was breathing rather quickly, a little shaken by the suddenness of the accident, and his face took on a shade of concern.

"You're not hurt? I hope? Did you twist your ankle?"

"No, oh, no," she smiled up at him. "I can't have fastened my skate on properly, and when it shot off like that I fell. I rather lost my head."

"You see," she added explanatorily, "I haven't skated for some years. And I was never very proficient."

"I see," he said gravely. "It was a little rash of you to start again quite alone, wasn't it?"

"I suppose it was. However, as you luckily happened to be there to save me from the consequences, no harm is done. Thank you so much."

"There was a note of dismissal in her voice, but apparently he failed to notice it, for he held out his hands to her, crosswise, saying:

"Let me help you to the bank, and then I'll retrieve your errand skate for you."

He so evidently expected her to comply with his suggestion that, almost without her own volition, she found herself moving with him towards the edge of the rink, her hands clasped in a close, steady clasp, and a moment later she was scrambling up the bank. Once more on level ground, she made a movement to withdraw her hands.

"I can manage quite well now," she said rather nervously. There was nothing in that strong, firm grip of his which sent a curious tremor of consciousness through her.

Bedouin Given Credit Of Inventing Alphabet

Chicago Professor's Idea Uproots Theory of Many Scholars

Some unknown Bedouin mine foreman, working for the ancient Egyptians, about 1,600 years before Christ, is credited by Prof. Martin Sprengling, of the University of Chicago, with inventing the A, B, C. The mine foreman, puzzled by the complex hieroglyphics of his masters, sought a shorter way to keep his records, and simplified his work by developing a rudimentary alphabet, in the opinion of Prof. Sprengling. He based his theory on his translation of the Sinai inscriptions found in 1864, by Sir Flinders Petrie, in Sinai, which lies between Egypt and the northern part of Arabia. His theory was based that of many scholars who have attributed the development of the alphabet to the Phoenicians.

French Scientist Wants To Raise Race Of Super-Cats

"The production of a race of 'super-cats' capable of driving all mice and rats from any city in France was forecast by Dr. Jean Loir, distinguished scientist and nephew of the famous Pasteur.

Dr. Loir is seeking cats with a highly developed sense of smell and with light-colored fur. Most of the animals with which he has experimented so far have been remarkable for the length of their whiskers.

Edmond Herriot, mayor of Lyons, has invited Dr. Loir to go to that city, where special facilities would be accorded him for further experiments.

Storage accommodation at Somerset House, London, England, where wills, birth, death and marriage certificates, and divorce documents are filed, has for many years been severely taxed. The collection of some of the wills date back to 1382. Among the collection are those of Shakespeare, Milton, Nelson, Wellington, Pitt, Burke, and Dr. Johnson. All these can be seen for a fee of 1s., except that of Shakespeare, for an inspection of which 2s. is charged. Altogether it is estimated that Somerset House contains fifty million documents.

French Laboratory Making Experiment

Trying To Acclimatize Trees Which Produce Fluid Like Milk

An experiment with trees that produce milk and cream is being conducted by an important French laboratory.

Several living trees of the family "Bromeliaceae" have been brought to France from South America, and work has been started to acclimatize them to northern European conditions. The trees, when punctured, will provide a sweet fluid like milk. It does not run out very quickly, laboratory tests show that it is richer than cow's milk in phosphates and sugar. It looks and tastes much like the real product and is produced at 60 per cent. of the cost of ordinary cream.

Cheese Curing During Fall Months

Dr. J. A. Rudick, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, calls attention to the importance of maintaining adequate temperatures for the curing of cheese made during the fall months, particularly October and November.

The temperature of the curing room should never be allowed to go below 60 degrees Fahrenheit, and the cheese should be turned every day. As the curing room keeps the air drier and gives the cheese better ridges while maintaining adequate temperatures.

Mother Keeps Safely Only Link With Dead Son

With millions of dollars stored away in the vaults of one of Washington's largest financial institutions, it will naturally surprise one to learn that a cracked photograph record, held for safe keeping there, is "the most precious thing" under lock and key. And why shouldn't it be? Listen what the head of the bank related interestingly the other day, after he looked up a tin of his desk only to see standing before him a little old woman, dressed in black. Placing a round package on the desk he said: "Please, I want to see it."

He told him where it was safe. It was very precious to her. Further inquiry revealed, the banker said: "In 1917 her son, a singer in a local cabaret, marched away to war and stayed in Flanders Field. One of the things she had to remember him by was a photograph record which he had made before he left. It was old and scratched now, and had a crack in it, but his voice, singing one of the numbers he had sung at the cabaret, was still recognizable. It was the record she wanted to preserve. And now, once a year, on her son's birthday, the banker said, the little old woman comes to the bank and takes home the record."

Certainly a good fountain pen was in use in China in the seventeenth century, but antiquarians go back a good deal further than that in their history. It is claimed that the idea of ink-and-fountain pens were in use in China hundreds of years before the Christian era began.

SAYS CANADA'S BANKING SYSTEM ON SOUND BASIS

Montreal, Que.—Canada is well able to lean on her own resources and is doing so. Her production of gold will amount to $50,000,000 this year, but the banking system is sound and business is being done," declared Jean-Baptiste Lemay, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, addressing a meeting of the Catholic Women's league, city sub-division. Mr. Lemay was asked by Premier L. A. Taschereau to substitute for him as speaker.

Sympathy with those involved in recent occurrences in the stock exchange was expressed by Mr. Lemay. He asked that no unfounded criticism be directed against those who had sacrificed years of work and the results therefrom, as well as their own personal means, in order to protect their clients.

The causes which had produced at the moment such unfavourable results in the financial field were of real benefit to Canada in the economic field by stimulating production of Canadian goods and employment of Canadian labour, the banker said. The lowering of the value of the Canadian dollar prices, indirectly, an obstacle against imports of goods which made it easier for the Canadian producer to develop his own production and give more employment to Canadians, thereby creating a sounder economic situation as far as Canada was concerned, he went on.

Referring to the country's banks, Mr. Lemay suggested to his hearers they read the annual statements of the various banks covering the years 1928 and 1930. "You will find that every single bank in this country advised people to be careful, that excesses would inevitably bring their reaction, that dangers were ahead."

"Do you imagine that the banks that were giving out to others these warnings did not trim their own sails, seeing that there was a storm ahead? I leave the answer to your own judgment. The bank situation in Canada is sound. We have every reason to be proud of the system established in this country, which has weathered many storms."

He mentioned the crises of 1890, 1897, 1914 and 1921.

"We have lived through these crises; they came, they passed and we are still alive."

Canada was now the second largest gold producing country in the world, Mr. Lemay said. "The production would be used in two ways: 'Firstly, it must be used to protect the internal situation in Canada, that is the financial situation; to keep it sane and sound, at the same time, Canada will keep in the position of shipping gold outside the country, as when national conditions permit, gold shipments have not stopped, are being made and will continue to be made.'"

Mr. Lemay said. The banker blamed recent distress selling of stock issues on an attack of nerves. "We are cool and collected when an emergency arises, and we should be done at the moment. But people have an attack of nerves after the accident is over. The danger is past but there is a psychological reaction at seeing just what has happened." The danger was in 1929 and 1930 when prices were high, not in 1931 when they are on the bottom, he said.

King George Summarizes Government's Effort To Overcome Financial Trouble

London, Eng.—The British Parliament was prorogued October 7, with a speech from the throne while excitement prevailed over the coming general election.

The King, in his speech, briefly summarized the government's effort to pull the nation out of its financial and economic troubles. Only about 100 members of the House of Commons were scattered along the benches, many already having departed for their constituencies. Cheers, jokes and outbursts of applause interrupted the proceedings as the members shouted across the floor of the House from the various sections.

Gandhi is Impatient

Wants Government To Give Pledge Regarding Future Line Of Action
London, Eng.—Although he appreciates that the general election and Britain's financial questions have necessarily made the Indian matter a secondary issue, Mahatma Gandhi is becoming restless. "I have been in England nearly a month now," he said, "and I have accomplished nothing except to become acquainted with England's poor and unemployed. "If, however, the Government will give certain pledges respecting its future line of action in handling the Indian issue I am willing to remain here until after the election, but if not to strike his opponent while he is down. England must be given a chance to regain its feet, but at the same time the Indian question must not go unsolved indefinitely."

"When I return to India, which I hope will be before the end of the year, I must have something tangible to offer my people in the way of independence. Otherwise we must renew the fight against our masters which I forbid, because if the struggle is revived I fear Indians not only will be fighting Englishmen, but one Indian community will be pitted against another in racial strife."

Premier Ramsay MacDonald said the general election would not interfere with the Indian Round-Table Conference and that the Government will pursue its intention to settle the Indian problem before the year is over.

Mounted Police Battle With Crowd In Heart Of London

London, England.—A crowd of the unemployed using sticks, stones and bricks in front of the British Museum in the heart of London. Unable to resist the relentless charging of the hordes at gall and club, the police, screaming, finally marched to Hyde Park, where it was served a free meal and went home.

The disorder began when the constabulary appeared and ordered the crowd to disperse. When they refused, Drury Lane, gathering new recruits constantly and singing "The Red Flag," to the tune of "The British Grenadiers," the crowd, which immediately became infuriated, tossed firecrackers into the police ranks, stampeding the hordes. They gathered bricks and pieces of mortar and threw them at the police, who drew back and charged, arresting the ring-leaders.

General Election In England

Vote Will Be Taken On October Twenty-Seven

London, Eng.—Great Britain will vote October 27 in a general election on issues of outstanding importance. It amounted at Buckingham Palace.

It will be the first general election since May 30, 1929, when Rt. Hon. Ramsay MacDonald's Conservative Government was swept out of power and the Labour party returned to the helm for the first time in five years. The general election in Parliament was radically reduced but it has held the balance of power throughout the period.

The announcement came after Premier MacDonald had conferred with the King.

The new parliament will be called into session early in November, it was said, and will probably sit for six weeks up to the Christmas recess. The election campaign is expected to begin at once with all three parties girding for an epochal struggle.

HAS NO DOUBT ABOUT RESULT OF ELECTIONS

London, Eng.—"I was never more confident of anything in my life than of the final result this election will produce," declared Rt. Hon. J. E. Thompson, Secretary of State for the Dominions, when seen by the Canadian Press.

"At the same time," Mr. Thompson continued, "frankly I am somewhat afraid of the impression which will be held in certain foreign places, and perhaps to some extent in certain far parts of the Empire, as to the exact position prevailing here. That is one reason I favour an early election."

"I am convinced the overwhelming mass of opinion in this country is behind the National Government and will support it even though its policy of economy may be severe. That of itself will convince the whole world of the stability of this country."

Referring to the general position of the Empire in the present economic crisis, Mr. Thompson said he was more optimistic of the future than ever before. "Although we are off the gold standard, we are the greatest banking country in the world," he said.

"The British Empire need have no apprehensions for the future. What has struck me more than anything is the manner in which the Dominions, without a solitary exception, have accepted the situation, knowing we here should do the right thing, and being ready to give us all the help they can."

As to the fiscal policy of the National Government, Mr. Thompson said: "I am not committed to any financial policy. The first thing for this country to do is to deal with the adverse balance of trade."

"The British Empire need have no apprehensions for the future. What has struck me more than anything is the manner in which the Dominions, without a solitary exception, have accepted the situation, knowing we here should do the right thing, and being ready to give us all the help they can."

Resignation Of Curtius

Withdrawal Does Not Mean Any Change In Foreign Policy Of Germany

Berlin, Germany.—Dr. Julius Curtius, who succeeded the late Dr. Gustav Stresemann as foreign minister of Germany in October, 1929, and kept in force the Stresemann policy of cordial relations with Germany's wartime enemies, has submitted his resignation to Chancellor Heinrich Brüning.

His withdrawal came after bitter criticism, especially by National Socialists and Nationalists, who objected because he approved Germany's abandonment of the proposed Austro-German customs pact. The foreign minister also was attacked on his policy of friendship with France. Government spokesmen emphatically asserted, however, that his resignation did not mean any change in Germany's foreign policy.

Protest From U.F.C.

Against Closing Of Saskatchewan Traffic and Freight Rates Branch

Saskatoon, Sask.—A strong protest against the closing of the traffic and freight rates branch of the provincial department of railways, which is heralded as a "great shock," was issued by United Farmers of Canada headquarters, letters being paid to the U.F.C. Smith, head of the branch, now dismissed.

Disputing any motive of economy, the statement claims that it is a known fact that the government department has saved the province $500,000. The spokesman of the U.F.C. also indicates that with the opening of the Hudson Bay route, the functioning of the department is still more essential to the farmers of Saskatchewan.

A reply was received Wednesday, October 7, expressing the regrets of Premier Laval that he would be unable to accept the invitation.

Will Return To U.S.

Shanghai, China.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh announced abandonment of all plans to continue their aerial vacation in the Orient in view of Senator Dwight F. Morrow's death. They will take a steamer immediately for Seattle.

All governments, including the federal government, were experiencing trouble owing to declining revenues and mounting expenditures, Manitoba was not alone and was better off than some others.

Discussing unemployment the Premier said, "Unfortunately a bad psychology has been created among the people. The expectation of jobs for all willing to work has created false hopes in the minds of men already hurried by their difficulties. To give half-time jobs to all now out of employment, with the material resources required, would be equal to a 100 per cent. increase in the provincial budget."

"This exodus of our industrial system can not be allowed to remain, quite clearly the provision of government work for everyone is out of the question. We must be gotten out of people's minds. Yet it is the state's responsibility to help find jobs where they can be created."

No Need Of Transients

Minister Of Labour Hopes To Win-erings Of Unemployed Men

Ottawa, Ont.—No necessity exists for the continual wanderings of transient unemployed men, Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labour, said here. He also announced men going to work on the trans-Canada Highway would have to provide themselves with suitable clothing or obtain it from other than governmental sources.

"There is no necessity for the continual rambling up and down of these men on the roads. The transients are giving Canada the appearance of a country crowded with unemployed, when it is not, I am quite satisfied there is no necessity for the liberty and license in transient travelling now rampant."

His withdrawal came after western trip. Senator Robertson said he had seen no signs of unemployment at divisional points in British Columbia. The transients there seemed to have disappeared.

MUST FORSAKE PARTY STRIFE, SAYS BRACKEN

Winnipeg, Man.—With Premier Johnston renewing his plea for a non-party government in Manitoba, and the executives of both the Liberal and Conservative parties holding meetings to discuss the proposal, it is expected that the proposal, if accepted, will be subject of keen speculation. At the present time, however, the proposal is not being discussed.

In a speech at Killarney, Wednesday, October 7, the Premier made his first public pronouncement on the proposal. He said the proposal was not advanced with the idea of postponing the impending provincial elections. He hoped the other party leaders would reach final decisions in opposition but if so the present government would carry on.

Increasing expenditure on unemployment relief and declining revenues confronted the province with a serious financial situation he said. No good purpose could be served by party strife and bickering for political advantage at such a time.

So far the Government had been able to avoid a deficit and the fact that only recently it had sold a $5,000,000 bond issue showed the province was in a sound position. It was necessary, however, to look to the future and retrench. Both individual and government needed more help to practice the virtues of thrift and frugality.

The sharp decline in the price of farm products was affecting every sphere of activity in Manitoba, said the Premier. This year the value of the province's farm products would be only $50,000,000, while at the worst of the depression in 1921-23 it was $100,000,000. While the burden fell on the farmers it affected also those engaged in other industries and in trade.

All governments, including the federal government, were experiencing trouble owing to declining revenues and mounting expenditures, Manitoba was not alone and was better off than some others.

Discussing unemployment the Premier said, "Unfortunately a bad psychology has been created among the people. ## HOOVER PLAN TO EASE CREDIT IS ENDORSED HERE

Toronto, Ont.—President Hoover's plan to form a $500,000,000 corporation for the extension of credits was termed a "sound, constructive proposal" by Sir Thomas Mulholland, vice-president of the Bank of Commerce, in an interview with the Toronto Telegram. Sir Thomas believed President Hoover's proposal "should go far to break the deadlock in credit due to fear and distrust, which has been throttling the internal and external trade and financing of the United States."

"There is more analogy between President Hoover's proposal and the recent action of the British Government in suspending the gold standard than appears on the surface," Sir Thomas continued. "It should assist materially in settling America's gold reserves free to discharge the function of financing gold credit everywhere."

Sir Thomas said the proposed measure is essentially the same as that taken by Canada at the outbreak of the war. "The Dominion treasury announced that it stood prepared to loan freely to the banks at a reasonable rate of interest upon approval of securities of all kinds, to enable the banks to continue to loan to their customers as in normal times," he said.

As well as restoring confidence in the United States, the president's relieving the banking community from apprehension as to liquidity, enable them to resume their function of financing credit everywhere, while industry and agriculture, "subject of course to the observance of sound banking principles."

The proposal should benefit Canada, he held. "Any revival of trade in the United States should lead to demand for our products. This, in turn, also should tend to make borrowing conditions on New York more favourable to Canadian governments and municipalities. Sir Thomas warned, "that such governments and municipalities show that they are not only more favourable to taking active steps to present sound budgetary statements. To such governments and municipalities and all other corporations whose credit is sound, the prospect of refunding issues payable in New York is much more favourable than the reason of the president's proposal."

Nationalization Of Credits

C.F.A. Leader Says Money Should Be Provided At Once Rather Than For Profit

Lethbridge, Alberta.—The Canadian Farmers' Association has declared its support for the nationalization of credits. According to Robert Gardner, leader of the United Farmers of Alberta group in the House of Commons and all other corporations whose credit is sound, the prospect of refunding issues payable in New York is much more favourable than the reason of the president's proposal."

He also suggested that possibly capitalism has reached its zenith and all classes will have to work together to reach a solution. War and revolt with bloodshed will solve nothing, he maintained.

Urges Moratorium

Year's Delay On Farm Loan Interest Would Assist Farmers

Winnipeg.—A year's moratorium on farm loan interest would enable western Canada to make as rapid a recovery from the depression as any other section of the Dominion, and also would prevent many farmers giving up their farms, according to Col. A. M. Mullins, M.P. for Manitoba.

Col. Mullins, who has just returned from a tour of his constituency, said that the mortgage and loan companies decline to take this course they are liable to find themselves with a lot of vacant farms on hand.

To Aid Railways

Toronto, Ont.—The Toronto Telegram says: "Toronto railwaymen will make a concerted effort to boycott retail firms which do not patronize the railway freight hauling services. At an organization meeting to be held here, representatives of the many labour unions will attempt to lay the foundation for the formation of a 'Ship-hauling Association,' whose members will be bound to deal only with firms which patronize the railways."

VILLAGE OF CHAMPION

Early Closing By-Law

Notice is hereby given that a petition has been presented to the Council of the Village of Champion under the provisions of the Statute in relation to the passing of the following closing by-law.

The Municipal Council of the Village of Champion duly assembled, enacts as follows:

1. All shops throughout the whole area of the Village of Champion, in the Province of Alberta, wherein the retail trade of groceries, hardware and general merchandise, or any of them is carried on, shall, subject to the following proviso, be closed for the serving of customers at and after the hour of six o'clock P.M. all business days, except Wednesdays and Saturdays, the closing hour on Wednesdays to be one o'clock P.M. and on Saturdays not later than 11:30 o'clock P.M., each week, between the First day of October and the Thirty-first day of July inclusive in each year, on which days (namely, from August 1st to September 30th) such shops shall be closed for the serving of customers not later than nine o'clock P.M. Mondays to Fridays inclusive, and not later than 11:30 P.M. on Saturdays.

Provided that six o'clock and one o'clock closing hours shall not be effective on the weekdays immediately preceding a statutory or other holiday.

DONE AND PASSED in Council this.....day of....., 1931.

Notice is hereby further given that objections to the petition presented to the council praying for the passing of such by-law on the ground that such petition is insufficiently signed or otherwise affecting the validity or sufficiency thereof must be filed with the secretary-treasurer of the Village on or before the Ninth day of November 1931, and that if no such objections are filed before the said date the council will forthwith proceed to pass the said closing by-law.

Bread is The Staff of Life

The Flour Question has never aroused so much interest as today.

Beware of cheap, artificial bleached flour. Demand the best when wheat is so abundant, and nature has provided us the very best wheat in the world.

Don't let your grocer mislead you into using cheap bread or flour whereby you may injure your health.

Ask your miller, ask your baker, who has spent a lifetime in this line. Eat your way into health by using pure, wholesome bread, made out of our own home-grown wheat, which nature has provided with such a fine flavor that when you are using Vulcan Flour you cannot help noticing its quality. It is not killed by chemical or any sort of bleaching. Also milled in a fine, up-to-date mill.

The State of North Dakota has prohibited the bleaching of flour since medical men have proved that bleached flour killed rabbits. So be cautious to select your flour. Don't fail to demand the best. As we raise the best wheat why not have it in the flour we use.

For any further information ask your baker. He knows all different flours, and will be glad to talk it over with you.
